RASPBERRY

NATURAL FRUIT PUREE

Grown in the fertile Willamette Valley region, located south of Portland, in the heart of Oregon berry farmland. Nestled between Mount Hood and the Cascade Mountain range, the fertile, rich soils of the Willamette Valley produce some of the finest raspberries in the world. The berries are small, with small seeds and appear medium to bright red in color depending on the variety. They have incredible semi-tart flavor, with subtle sweetness. A mix of early and late harvest varieties are typically planted, giving Oregon a red raspberry harvest season from mid-June to October.
